

Cut/Connect

By cutting into the existing building, this project turns separation into connection. Each opening creates continuity—redirecting circulation, linking levels, and forming a sculptural network that blends with the original structure. Architecture becomes not an added object, but a revealed relationship.

Jaewon Lee & Alexander Morris

Estranged Parts & Connective Grounds

Spatial Continuities Toward a New Ensemble

UCLA I Department of Architecture and Urban Design I Huljich Advanced Topic Studio 401.1 I Fall 2025